DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment/Arguments

1. The objections to Claims 7 and 17, the rejection of Claim 19 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, and the rejections of Claims 1-6, are withdrawn. As to the rejections of Claims 7-19 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) over Surprise in view of Nakahata, Applicant's arguments, filed December 6, 2005, have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejections have been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground of rejection is made over Surprise in view of Nakahata and Pfefferkorn; see below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. Claims 7-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Surprise in view of Nakahata, and further in view of U.S. Patent No. 4,988,346 to Pfefferkorn, previously made of record.
4. For Claims 7 and 19, Surprise/Nakahata show most of the limitations of these claims as stated in the prior action mailed August 11, 2005. Surprise/Nakahata teach primary ears having a proximal edge (Surprise, proximal edge of primary fastener 64, Fig. 2). Surprise/Nakahata do not expressly show secondary ears having a proximal edge. However, primary and secondary ears having a proximal edge are well known in the art. Pfefferkorn confirms this and teaches a disposable absorbent article having a dual fastening system with primary and secondary ears having a proximal edge (Figs. 1, 3, and 4 and col. 2, line 62 to col. 3, line 45). Pfefferkorn indicates that the arrangement of fasteners limits the infant's access to the securing point (col. 1, line 61 to col. 2, line 2). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the article of Surprise to include the primary and secondary ears both having a proximal edge as taught by Pfefferkorn, to limit the infant's access to the securing point.

5. For Claims 8-18, Surprise/Nakahata teach these limitations, as stated in the prior action.
